The federal government wants to end what has been the greatest tax break for retirement accounts in U.S history...

...and not many advisers are talking about it with their clients who are at risk—which is just about all of us.

The Senate Finance Committee voted 26-0 to kill one of the best methods that middle-class retirees have for passing money onto their heirs—the stretch IRA. If the law passes, and it appears likely that it will in 2017, up to 1/3 of your IRA or 401(k) will be lost to taxes after you die. So much for your children and grandchildren benefiting from all your years of saving and hard work.

The good news is our CPAs and attorneys have devised five (5) strategies that can dramatically reduce the impact of these devastating changes. I will be sharing these strategies and more in our new workshop, How to Stop Pending Changes in Tax Laws from Taking Up to 1/3 of Your IRAs and Retirement Plans. Don’t miss it if you can.

I am also presenting two of our most popular workshops on trusts and the power of index fund investing. The combined information could be life-changing.

These FREE Workshops are especially valuable for men and women with IRAs of $500,000 or more.

Note: Workshops at this location usually fill and definitely will because of the importance of the new law. So I urge you to reserve your seats today while space is still available.

Who Says You Can't Control From the Grave? Using Trusts to Protect Your Family

Are your kids fiscally conservative and financially responsible? Do they save sensibly or way overspend on luxuries and toys they can't really afford?

You won't always be around to make sure your children, their spouses, your grandchildren, and your other heirs are fiscally responsible with the inheritance you leave them.

But by using Trusts, as Jim shows you in this workshop, you can maintain control over your wealth, including your IRA, and ensure your heirs hang on to it and use it responsibly, long after you are gone.

Another issue addressed in depth in this workshop is whether it is worth it to go through the extra time, effort and expense of avoiding probate.

Worried that your no-good son-in-law will divorce your daughter and walk away with half of the money you left her? Learn about the "I don't want my no good son-in-law to inherit one red cent of my money Trust." Want to stop your grandson from blowing his inheritance on a Porsche when he is 21?

Here are the Trust strategies that can keep your wealth intact and help protect your heirs from their creditors and their own poor judgement. Trusts for adult children, however, are often not appropriate—and this workshop helps distinguish when you should and should not have a Trust.

How to Stop Pending Changes in Tax Laws from Enabling the IRS to Legally Take Up to 1/3 or More of Your IRAs and Retirement Plans

By combining Optimal Retirement Planning, Social Security Optimization, Strategic Roth IRA Conversions, Appropriate Trusts, and Low-Cost Index Funds You Can Keep Your Wealth in Your Family... and Out of Uncle Sam's Hands!

Chart Assumptions:

- Child inherits IRA at age 45, and earns $100,000 annually during working years
- Child retires at age 67, and receives $40,000 in Social Security income annually
- $90,000 Expenses, adjusted annually by 3.5% • Rate of Return is 7%

Since January 2001, the IRS has permitted beneficiaries—both children and grandchildren—to stretch distributions from inherited IRAs over their lifetime. By paying the income taxes on relatively modest annual distributions for many years they continue to benefit from tax-deferred growth.

Known as the "stretch IRA," this benefit has long been the greatest opportunity taxpayers have had to pass on their wealth to heirs relatively intact and with a minimum of estate taxes.

Well, the federal government, with a national debt of more than $19 trillion¹, is in desperate need of cash. So a few years ago, they entertained the idea that killing the stretch IRA would be a good way to get their hands on some of the $18 trillion² Americans hold in their retirement accounts.

And sure enough, the government has now officially pounded the first nail into the stretch IRAs coffin: On September 21, 2016, the Senate Committee on Finance this time voted 26-0 to ask Congress to kill the unlimited stretch IRA.

Jim Lange was one of a handful of financial advisors to predict the end of the stretch IRA and he published two articles on the topic in the January and February 2016 issues of the peer-reviewed tax journal, Trusts & Estates.

If the new law passes (and it seems very likely to do so in 2017), your beneficiaries will have to pay taxes on the retirement account they inherit within five years of your death, with an exemption of $450,000.

The good news is that the new law will not apply to surviving spouses, but only to most other heirs. The tax payments could be financially devastating to your beneficiaries as the larger distributions could be taxed at the highest tax rates, currently 39.6%.

In this workshop, Jim shares with you important steps you can take to reposition your retirement and estate plans for the imminent end of stretch IRA provision—and potentially keep hundreds of thousands of extra dollars of your wealth in your family.

What Makes More Money? The S&P 500 or Active Money Managers?

Another great strategy to build your retirement wealth and estate: invest in no-load, low-cost, well-diversified, and tax-efficient index funds. Our preferred sets of funds, Dimensional Fund Advisors (DFA), were previously only available to institutional investors.

In fact, only 0.15% of asset management firms are approved to offer clients access to these funds. Lange Financial Group is one of them, enabling our clients to own Dimensional Fund Advisor Funds.

Over the long term, we believe DFA index funds will have an advantage over their Vanguard counterparts, even after subtracting a presumed 1% annual management fee.

Paul Merriman, a well-known retired investment adviser prefers DFA over Vanguard. He has his money in DFA for two reasons. First, he likes the DFA investment options, and second, DFA advisers can offer helpful advice in terms of retirement and estate planning.

Clients who work with us for money management services as well as retirement and estate planning get to participate as we run personalized projections for many area including Roth conversions, Social Security planning, safe withdrawal rates, and other way to maximize your returns while protecting your wealth.

Note: All investing involves risk, including the potential for loss of principal. There is no guarantee that any strategy will be successful.
